

For Next Day

- Add the StringList module to your personal code library (Strings?), and write a test program that constructs a StringList from the command line arguments and then requests each String from the StringList and prints it to standard out. As always, submit a single pdf file, with the test program listing.